THE COURTS.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT—IN BANKRUPTCY. York Mail Steamship Company Before Judge Blatenford.

er of the New York Mail Steamshi apany.—This was a case of involuntary bankruptcy, certain creditors seeking on petition to bring s of the company within the operation of the Bankruptcy act. Counsel on the part of the company moved for a postponement for a week, on the ground that although he could not say the company was not bankrupt from several circumstances in connection with the case, but there were several allegations in the petition which were not true, and which required to be answered and disproved. It was alleged that there were several judgments against the company which they were unable to pay, and there were new questions arising every day, one of which was that it was charged against them that they had paid certain judgments, which was not true. The company had suffered dreadfully in those proceedings, and rather than prolong the case much further he would in the present instance consent that judgment should go by default. There was a vast deal of property involved in this case. For instance, by the 1st of May the rent on the docks should be paid, and if the case were not in a fair way of adjustment by that time a loss to the company of $100,000 would be the result. Judge Blatchford said he thought a delay of a week would not prejudice either party, and the adjudication could be suspended by consent. After some further discussion it was ultimately agreed upon by counsel on either side to postpone the case until Saturday next.

Jury Trials in Bankruptcy. the Bankruptcy act. Counsel on the part of the Jury Trials in Bankruptcy. In the Matter of George A. Wicks and Others .- In this case counsel for the bankrupt demanded a jury trial on the ground that the property to be adjuditrial on the ground that the property to be adjudicated upon amounted to about $40,000; that a committee of creditors had been appointed, and that this committee had aiready collected and received about $20,000 of this property. The entire property was exclusively in the hands of the creditors, and the debtors did not intend to retain the value of a single dollar, but rather they propose to rive every dollar they have in the world into the hands of the creditors. The entire property involved in this case would reach nearly to a million of dollars. The Judge said that the case should stand over for a jury, and fixed next Monday for the trial. Martin and Smith for the petitioners; A. J. Dittenhoeffer for bankrupt.

Me bankrupt's discharge had been filed by the opposing creditors, and had been decided to be too vague and uncertain, except the third and fifth.

The case came up on the application by the bankrupt for his final order.

It was alleged that a restaurant in Liberty street was really his property, and that he had concealed his interest in that property, valued at $7,000, from his creditors and not set it forth in his schedule.

Edwin James argued the case for the petitioner and Mr. Higgins for the creditors.

After reviewing the testimony which had been taken before the Register the court reserved its decision.

UNITED STATES COMMISSIONERS' COURT.

Before Commissioner Osborn.

The United States vs. Joseph Bloomgart.—Yesterday Mr. Bell, Assistant United States District Attor mey, appeared before Commissioner Osbora to enter a criminal prosecution at the suit of the United States against Joseph Bloomgart, under the following circumstances:—It appears that the defendant glioomgart) had been an assistant teller at the fractional currency counter in the United States Deposit Department at Louisville, Ky., and that while employed in that position it is charged against him that he embezzled $12,000 of the public funds of the United States. An investigation having been held by the United States District Attorney for Kentucky some months ago, Bloomgart was released from custody, the District Attorney considering that he was not a public oulder within the meaning of the statute. But upon subsequent inquiry, after Bloomgart's discharge in Kentucky, the Supreme Court having considered the law upon a similar case on appeal in the district of Massachusetts held that such an officer was contemplated by the statute, the District Attorney of Kentucky telegraphed to have the defendant arrested, he having left Kentucky and being in the mey, appeared before Commissioner Osborn to enter was contemplated by the statute, the District Attorney of Kentucky telegraphed to have the defendant arrested, he having left Kentucky and being in the city of New York. Complaint was made before Commissioner Osborn, who issued a warrant for Bloomgart's arrest, and on examination he was this day heid for trial in Kentucky and so committed to the custedy of the Marshal, awaiting a bench warrant for his removal. Immediately after the commitment by the Commissioner, ex-Judge Beebe, as counsel for the prisoner, served a writ of habeas corpus on the Marshal, and a writ of certiforari on Commissioner Osborn, for the purpose of reviewing the proceedings in the case and to have a precedent established by the court as to how much and what kind of evidence is necessary to hold offenders who may be accased of committing crimes in another district, and having escaped therefrom into this district. The return of the writs is fixed for Tuesday next at eleven o'clock.

Another Arrest on a Charge of Dealing In Counterfelt Currency. On Saturday Thos. Lloyd, an alleged accomplice of Doran and Chatterton, who were committed for trial on Friday, was brought before Commissioner Os-born, charged with selling or issuing counterfeit bils and notes of the national currency and United States Treasury, and was committed for trial in de-fault of $10,000 bell.

Charge Against a Custom House Officer. Before Commissioner White. -

An officer of the Custom House, in the appraise ment department, was yesterday in custody before ment department, was yesterday in custody before Mr. Kenneth White, United States Commissioner, charged with having aided and abetted certain parties in the importation and smuggling of goods in avoidance of the duties and taxes imposed by law. One witness on the part of the government was examined to sustain the charge, but certain books and documents being required to make out the case against the accused, and these not being present the case was adjourned and the accused held to bail in $5,900 to appear on Wednesday next.

A New Question in the Law of Corporations.

Before Judge Cardozo. The Excelsior Petroleum Company vs. William A. Powler, Frederick Lacy, Jesse C. Dayton, Augustus Emoury and Others .- The Excelsior Petroleum Company has commenced actions in its coporate name against the defendants, formerly trustees of said company, to recover the sum of $120,000, paid to the stockholders as dividends, on the ground that the dividends were not paid out of profits, but out of the proceeds of the sale of property which constituted the capital stock of the corporation. Some of the defendants demorred to the complaint on the ground that the stockholders should have been joined as defendants and on the ground that the complaint does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action. In arguing the latter point it was daimed that a corporation cannot sue its trustees for such a cause, because the money has gone to stockholders, who are substantially the corporation, and has therefore not been wested nor misappited. The demurrer was overruled and judgment ordered for plaintiff. Thereby the right of a corporation to recover dividends paid out of capital for its own benefit and in its own name from the trustees who authorize such dividends is affirmed. of said company, to recover the sam of $100,000,

The Tretting Mare Fearless Burned to Death. The residents in the vicinity of the Fashion Course Newtown, Long Island, were considerably excited on Saturday morning at the announcement that the stables connected with this track were on fire. Cathering in large numbers, it was found that the Cathering in large numbers, it was found that the apartment in which the very valuable mare Fearless was confined was enveloped in smoke. The communicating doors were at once thrown open and an examination made, when, to their utter astonishment and regret, it was found the mare had been burned almost to a cinder. Many surmises have been made regarding the origin of the fire, but none of that nature is yet suggested that explains the rather mysterious occurrence. Fearless had but recently been sent to the Fashion Course to be trained for the trotting campaign of 1868, and turfinen generally will recollect that she had been entered by her owner, Mr. J. Dugrey, in the announced trots on this track of June 8, two mile heats, in harness, and June 23, mile heats, best three in five, in harness.

WESTCHESTER INTELLIGENCE.

WRIT OF HABBAS CORPUS .- Charles M. Jeffards of murder in the first degree at the Central Circuit Court, New York, on the 4th of January, 1862, and sentenced to be hung on the 20th of February in the sentenced to be hung on the 20th of February in the following year, were brought up on Friday before Judge Cochran at White Plains on a writ of habeas corpus from Sing Sing, where they had been confined since their sentence six years ago. Counsel sought their release on the piea that they were lifetally detained in custody by the warden of the prison, for the sentence read that they were to suffer capital punishment on the 20th of February, 1863, and to be detained at hard labor in Sing Sing until that date. Judge Cochran decided that the demurrers should be overruled and that the prisoners were to be held by the warden of Sing Sing under their old conviction and sentence, and they were accordingly taken back to the prison. It may be remembered that Jefferds murdered his father-in-law, Matthews, on the 30th of June, 1860, while Lauenberg killed Samuel Hoffman on the 14th of November, 1861. HORRIELE BASBARISM OF THE SOUTHERN MEGRO.

We find in the Feliciana (La.) Ledger a report of the trial of a negro man named Edmund Harrison for the nurder of a white boy named Eddie Smith, aged eleven years, just concluded before the District Court for that parish. The facts in the case are of a peculiarly aggravated character, and the confession of his accessory, which we publish below, makes the blood run cold when we think of a tender child shot down as if it had been a mad dog, rather than an inoffensive infant, in revenge for some act done or fancied to be done by his grandmother to the negro. We are told the poor little boy was actually shot at and killed while his face was lighted up with an innocent smile towards his devillsh murderers.

SUITS AGAINST ANTE-BELLUM POSIMASTERS.—At the outbreak of the late war many postmasters in the Southern States had in their onlices stamps or funds of considerable value, which were seized by the Confederate government and of whitch no further account has since been rendered to the Department at Washington. The United States government has commenced all over the South actions at law to recover its claims. In Virginia, during the past month, suits have been instituted against nearly one hundred of the delinquents. Among these we notice the name of Colonel Thomas P. Bigger, late Postmaster at Richmond, whose liabilities to the government amount to nearly $13,000, and the government amount to nearly $13,000, and the government as even gone so far as to attach his property and that of his sureties, Messrs, Chas. W. Purcell and Jos. Allen, both of this city.—Richmond Dispatch.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

BUNDAY, April 12, 1868. The most notable evens of the week in was street was the decline of sixty-two and a half per cent in the stock of the Atlantic Mail Company in a single day. This should, and doubtless will, serve as a warning to the banks to be more careful than they have hitherto been of the character of their collaterals as well as the extent of their margins. Pacific Mail also declined to 85. While railway shows and anytics. also declined to 86, while railway shares, and particularly Erie, New York Central and Hudson River, were weak, the first mentioned having sold down to 69% on Saturday and the second to 117%, while there was a nominal break of ten per cent in the third, the quotation after the boards having declined to 126, against sales at 136 in the morning, but this was followed by a recovery to 129. The market was, however, drooping at the close and a very un-settled feeling prevailed among holders of stocks, whose chief anxiety at present is to realize. Money was in moderate supply during the early part of the week at seven per cent in currency, but towards the close it became active and this rate in gold was paid in many instances, lenders at the same time discriminating very closely as to collaterals.

The abatement of stringency in the money market at the commencement of the week led to a strong upward reaction in government securities, and the advance averaged about two per cent from the lowest prices of the previous week, the improvement being stimulated by purchases to cover "short" sales. On Wednesday afternoon, however, they began to react in the opposite direction, and by noon on Saturday a decline of more than one per cent had taken place, chiefly owing to artificial pressure. From this point, however, there was a sharp advance of a half per cent under a good investment and speculative demand, and at the close the market had a strong demand, and at the close the market had a strong upward tendency, the apprehensions of increased monetary activity previously entertained having given place to a feeling of confidence in a moderately abundant supply of money at seven per cent next week on governments and other first class collate-rals. The difficulty of borrowing from the banks on the high priced speculative stocks is, however, likely to be much more difficult in the immediate future than it has been in the past, and this will tend to make money easier to borrowers on the public funds. The demoralized condition of the rallway share market has very nat urally aroused the istrust of lenders, and the break in Atlantic Mail will, it is feared, prove the precursor of a similarly rapid decline in such high priced stocks as New York Central, Hudson River and Harlem, which, together with Eric, are regarded as dangerous, owing to the liti-gation and unprecedentedly heavy Wall street operation. In which the party controlling and sustaining them is engaged. The out-life public has entirely withdrawn from the stock market, and the latter depends for its support wholly upon cliques, and ch a market is always in reality a weak one. Under such circumstances capital is likely to be diverted from railway securities into governments, and there will probably be a more active speculative demand for them than usual until prices are much lower than at present for other stocks. The dis-bursement of the afay interest on the public debt will temporarily stimulate the demand for investment, and the fact that the government issues have reached their maximum and been absorbed favors an appreciation of their market value, while for the interest they pay they are the cheapest stocks in Wall street. out speculative animation, and the fluctuations were from 137% to 138% a 138%, with the closing transactions at 133%. The shipments of specie and bullion during the week aggregated $891,807, and the receipts for customs duties at the port were $2,237,616. The Sub-Treasury sold coin to a moderate amount, and the sales on Saturday are understood to have mounted to about $400,000. The undertone of the market was strengthened by the firmness of the rates of exchange on Europe; but no important existing circumstances, and speculation is without any decided feature. The "short" interest created by sales of borrowed gold for the sake of the currency during the recent stringency has been reduced, and the borrowing demand for coin is limited.

The statement of the associated banks of this city for the week ending yesterday is less favorable than was expected, in view of all the preparations for the quarterly returns having been made in and before the previous week. It shows that the banks continued to lose de-posits, and consequently to contract their loans after the latter were made up. The deposits show a decrease of $1,104,966, the loans of $1,351,166, the circulation of $32,836 and the specie of $754,149, while in the legal tender notes there is an increase of $272,903. The totals of the two last statements are as su bjoined:-

From the foregoing it appears that the liabilities of the banks in deposits and circulation amount to $214,046,152 and their reserve in legal tender notes and specie to $68,325,759, or $14,814,221 in excess of the legal limit of twenty-five per cent, the required sum being $53,511,538. If we deduct the specie from the calculation, however—and coin is practically useless as reserve-we find the latter to be $1,528,929 below the required amount. In the discount line there has been very little business transacted for a month past, and only strictly prime commercial paper can now find a market at 7 a 9 per cent.

The foreign exchange market was quiet throughout the week but strong, and the leading drawers advanced their rate for sterling at sixty days to 109%, although buyers were generally indisposed to pay more than 109%. The upward tendency of rates was caused mainly by a falling off in the supply of cotton bills. The receipts of cotton at all the ports last week aggregated only 35,450 bales-making a total since September 1, 1867, of 1,964,380, against 1,588,150 for the corresponding period in 1866-67. The total foreign exports from all the ports since September 1 amount to 1,341,330 bales, against 1,050,490 bales for the same time in 1866-67. The stocks at all the ports aggregate 259,420 bales, against 487,550 bales at the same time last year. The stock of cotton at Liverpool on the 28th ult. was 391,530 bales, against 644,310 bales at the same date in 1867; and in London 69,810 bales, against 45,298. At the same time there was known to be on the way to those ports 150,000 bales of American and 180,720 bales of Indian. The stock in warehouse and affoat was therefore 792,060 bales, against 1,173,538 at the same time last year, the reduction of the supply being the chief cause of the advance which has neanwhile taken place in prices. The demand for bills from importers is rather light at present, but after the 1st of May there will be a special demand for the remittance of the proceeds of such of the coupons of the five-twenty bonds held abroad as are not reinvested in those securities. About ten miltions of the twenty-four millions of interest on the public debt due on the 1st of May is payable to perons in Europe, and it is fair to infer that about half this amount will be relayested in United States

The following were the closing quotations for stocks at six o'clock last evening:-New York Central, 117% a 117%; Erie, 60% a 60%; Reading, 88% a 88%; Michigan Southern, 80% a 89%; Rock Island, 93% a 93%; Cleveland and Pittsburg, 89 a 89; North-western preferred, 74% a 74%; Pacific Mail, 88% a 88%; Ohio and Mississippi, 30% a 20%; Western Union Telegraph, 36% a 35%; Fort Wayne, 100% a 161; Cleveland and Toledo, 10234.

THE DRY GOODS TRADE.

The market for domestic cotton goods has been characterized by great irregularity during the week past, having been controlled almost exclusively by the fluctuations in the cotton market here and in Liverpool, which have been more erratic and indefinable and inexplicable than at almost any previous time. During the first part of the week the goods market ruled very buoyant and firm under a good demand and the stimulus of an excited cotton mardemand and the stimulus of an excited cotton market, but along in the middle of the week, under a reaction and decline in cotton, the demand abated and the market became heavy, a part of the advance being lost. Subsequently, however, under an active coiton market and an advance of middling upland cotton to 50c, per pound, superinduced by a corresponding advance in Liverpool, the goods market again assumed a buoyant tone, and prices again favored the seller. The demand continued very moderate, however, and the amount of business transacted outing the last three days of the week was comparatively small, and confined mostly to a few of the leading jobbing houses. The purchases from the commission houses have fallen off greatly during the week, the jobbers having for the most part replenished their stocks last week, and, the demand having abated, they are in no need of duplicating their purchases from the manufacturers' agents. The market to-day (Saturday) stands firm, but rather quiet, and, as the Liverpool cotton market stands adjourned over until Tuesday, no exciting news is anticipated from that source; and, as this is about all that affects the goods market nowadays, comparatively few changes are apprehended in prices of dry goods during the next few days.

Prices are somewhat higher, as a general thing, than they were at the close of last week, but the advance is checked, and prices will not probably vary much for some time, save in the event of radical ductuations in the price of cotton. There is great competition among the leading houses and those which aspire to become so, and oftentimes this rivalry completely controls the market, as prices are marked up and marked down with a special view to undersell.

Woollen goods remain steady, with few important the traditions in the prices. ket, but along in the middle of the week, under a

(From the Columbus (Miss.) Sentinel.]

We noticed a few days ago the killing of a man named Mison, at Philadeiphia, Neshoba county, Miss. Since then we have heard the particulars from a member of the Columbus bar who has recently been near the scene of blood, and the facts make it one of the most terrible tragedies that has ever occurred in this section.

It seems that young Barrier was engaged to be married to one of the most respectable and beautiful girls in the county. The day before the day set for the marriage Barrier met young Wilson in the street and requested kim to go with him to the Probate office to get his marriage license. He did so. The license was obtained and Barrier left the office. Wilson, also, clandestinely obtained a license to marry the same girl. The company had assembled at the time and place appointed for the celebration of the nuptials, and just as all things were ready the lady was reported very sick. Chloroform, morphine and other opiates were administered to her, and in a few hours she was sufficiently revived and the marriage yows were taken. None knew at that time the cause of her sudden sickness. It was afterwards ascertained that Wilson had sent her a message not to marry Barrier. The communication so much affected her that she became ghostly pale and fainted. After the ceremony, as is the custom in that region, the new husband carried his bride to his humble home. That night the pair, after having retired to the bridal chamber, were aroused by several friends of Wilson, and one of them demanded an interview with the bride. She saw him, and in a few minutes informed her husband that she intended to return to her father's home at once. She left with Wilson's friends, and went back to her father's house. Immediately afterward she filed a bill for a gdivorce, alleging that she married Barrier while under the influence of opiates. A few days after the Circuit Court was to meet, and on the first day of the court a large crowd collected at the country town. Before noon the crowd ener

This was done and the tooth taken out, when Mr. Hatch seemed to revive, but soon thereafter relapsed and appeared dying. Every effort of medical skill was exerted to prevent a fatal result, but Mr. Hatch died in a short time, An inquest was held and a thorough examination of An inquest was held and a thorough examination of the case has been ordered to be made. The matte has created a great deal of excitement in Portland.
